

The recognition of Doña Casilda's works is registered from the pioneering work of the CREA Research Center.

Casilda Iturrizar's contributions to 19th century Bilbao:

Casilda Iturrizar, a bourgeois, religious and conservative woman, had a significant influence on 19th century Bilbao, although she has been invisibilized due to her conservative religious thinking. Although feminist contributions have been widely studied, the achievements of women like Casilda have been largely overlooked, which contradicts recent efforts to make notable women visible. Despite the fact that her works are known in Bilbao, her name and legacy remain largely unknown. Among her most notable contributions are her philanthropic and charitable contributions as well as the creation of the Basurto Civil Hospital and Casa de Misericordia, the creation of educational scholarships, and the donation of land for the construction of parks and other public spaces. The excellent work of feminism in making invisible women visible may include the contributions all diverse women have made to the progress of society.
